Occupational Health Advisory Service

We can provide seamless Occupational Health support through our sister company, Healthwork, which is the ultimate service provider.

The service is designed to support clients in complying with legislation relating to employee health at work and to optimise employee health, attendance and wellbeing. This includes establishing each individual employee's fitness for work, helping to manage employee absence, supporting return to work strategies, advising on necessary adjustments, ill health retirement, and also assisting in promoting general health & wellbeing of the workforce.

Core Advisory Service for employee health-related matters

Business hours telephone and email advice from experienced Occupational Health practitioners on employee health-related matters. This service provides access to fully confidential, legally compliant professional clinical guidance on this and other health related employee/employment related issues. This does not include Occupational Health referrals which are dealt with overleaf.

Discounted fees for Occupational Health referrals and other services

Clients who subscribe to the Core Advisory Service then have access to the following discounted services and pricing, listed overleaf.
